Cover-Up follows the life of Donovan Macion, an Olympic athlete known as the fastest man on the planet. Donovan's parents are scientists who are the key proponents of an important project. But a devastating incident happened to their family — unfortunately, a tragic plane crash took the life of his parents while Donovan was the lone survivor of the incident. The incident left Donovan a paraplegic that shattered him to the core. With the help of a remarkable physical therapist, Donovan slowly recovered.

But Donovan has no idea that the unexpected deaths of his scientist parents have left an important project incomplete.”

Unbeknownst Donovan's knowledge, Francine Bovier is desperate to complete his parents' projects. The ruthless CEO of Global Pharmaceuticals pressures two replacement scientists to finish the project of Donovan's parents but they fail to do so. After his parents' funeral, Donovan comes home and discovers that their house and home laboratory has been ransacked.

Then and there, Donovan goes to a secret location in their house to recover computer drives and artificial intelligence crystals which are the key in solving an experiment that has gone wrong. Now, Donovan must do everything he can to stop the life force that might sweep humanity's existence.
