“Our concept has been a community staple for years and has been integral in helping young dancers learn and grow in a creative, supportive environment,” stated Larry Goodman, CEO of Creation Station. “Thanks to this expansion effort, entrepreneurs who want a stable dance studio business now have the opportunity to own one with our support at their side all the way.”

The dance studio offers franchisees a distinct set of dance programs, all designed to promote self-esteem, creativity, and a love for movement. Beginning as young as 16 months old, dancers are led through a series of dance experiences complete with props, costumes, and weekly developmental themes, ultimately culminating into a higher level of dance for ages 6 and up. Older dancers transition into the Creation Station Dance Academy (CSA) where they are taught formal dance instruction.

“Creation Station is such a success due to our unique programs and approach to creativity and dance education. We are confident that Creation Station will be a standout concept no matter the market we are in. Our team is excited to see this incredible brand grow even more,” stated Kathleen Graupman, National Studio Director.

The brand currently boasts seven locations throughout California, two locations in Texas, and one in New York.

Franchise partners gain several perks when they sign on with the Creation Station franchise network. All franchisees go through an in-depth training program initially, plus receive additional refresher training throughout the life of the agreement. Ongoing marketing and operational support is also provided.
