BROOKLYN, NY, USA, April 24, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- IMARC Group has recently released a new research study titled "Maple Water Market: Global Industry Trends, Share, Size, Growth, Opportunity, and Forecast 2023-2028", offers a detailed analysis of the market drivers, segmentation, growth opportunities, trends, and competitive landscape to understand the current and future market scenarios.

How Big is the Maple Water Market?

The global maple water market size reached US$ 343 Million in 2022. Looking forward, IMARC Group expects the market to reach US$ 1,182 Million by 2028, exhibiting a growth rate (CAGR) of 22.5% during 2023-2028.

Maple water, also known as maple sap, is a clear liquid that flows from maple trees during the early spring months. It is the raw material used to make maple syrup and other maple products. Maple water is naturally filtered by the tree's root system, and it contains a variety of nutrients, including antioxidants, minerals, and amino acids. Unlike maple syrup, which is concentrated and contains a high amount of sugar, maple water has a subtle sweetness and a refreshing taste. It has gained popularity as a healthy, low-calorie alternative to other sugary beverages and can be consumed on its own or used as a natural sweetener in various recipes.

Maple Water Market Trends:

The rising demand for natural and organic beverages represents a key factor driving the market growth across the globe. In line with this, the increasing consumer awareness regarding the health benefits of maple water, and the rising popularity of plant-based drinks are contributing to the growth of the market. This is primarily attributed to the increasing health consciousness among consumers. Since maple water is naturally low in calories and contains antioxidants, minerals, and other beneficial nutrients, consumers are increasingly adopting it as their go-to beverage, which is facilitating the product sales, thus driving the market growth. In addition to this, the rising popularity of sports and energy drinks is also driving the demand for maple water as a natural alternative. Moreover, the market is also driven by the increasing popularity of maple water as a natural sweetener in various food and beverage products, including smoothies, juices, and coffee.
