investment and resources to the brand to bring it to new heights of success. The founding team will continue to be involved, working in Mexico to source tequila, bottling, and building a NOM for Goza.

"We are thrilled to join forces with Goza Tequila," said Schmier. "The brand has a strong reputation for quality, and we believe that with our combined expertise and resources, we can re-energize the brand and find a place for Goza in the crowded but growing Tequila universe. It's exciting to work with a well-distilled, quality agave spirit and applying our barrel management skills to bottle some exceptional tequila."

Hletko and Schmier bring their extensive experience in aging and blending whiskey to the agave spirits category. The duo is also making an investment in a new family-owned distillery in the Jalisco highland where Hletko is working with the distiller to use the cover crop corn to distill some Mexican corn whiskey.

"What's most exciting is the first thing we did, which is to fill our own barrels with fresh blanco Tequila, and our first batch of reposado is now ready for release."

Hletko added, "The tequila category is growing, and we believe that Goza is well-positioned to capitalize on this trend. We look forward to working with the team to continue to innovate and bring new, exciting products to market."

Goza Tequila will continue to be produced in Jalisco, Mexico, using only the finest blue agave and traditional distillation methods. The brand's portfolio includes a range of expressions, including blanco ($38), reposado ($40), and añejo ($50).
