Just as the earth is roughly 70% water, so too are our bodies. The water around proteins absorbs more terahertz than pure water, which helps our proteins fold correctly. The correct folding of proteins is essential for cellular homeostasis and the prevention of disease. Molecular vibrations of hydrogen bonds in proteins are important because they regulate the function of proteins. The capacity of DNA, RNA, and Proteins to catalyze energetic reactions in the body and convey information depends on their vibrational states accessible using terahertz frequency.

These Terahertz Wands are being purchased to assist with skin care, back and shoulder pain, knee pain, hair growth and a multitude of other health and wellness issues. Although the manufacturer or distributors make no claims on these devices it is clear from the large number of testimonials from customers that the technology is proving to be effective.

"We are seeing a growing number of people calling or buying a terahertz wand online and the majority of these people are being referred by friends and family". We do not make any claims on the devices and since they are not classified as medical devices it is important that people know to never substitute these devices for professional medical advice of care", said USA Med Bed, LLC spokesperson and marketing director Sean Callahan. "Although these devices are relatively new in the United States they have actually been in production for nearly ten years", he continued. "As these models keep being produced they are constantly being refined to be more powerful and lower in price. The 7.0 wand thus is one of the newest models being offered and it is showing to be larger and more cost effective than smaller Terahertz Wands and is becoming our best seller due to the fact that it is nearly twenty percent larger and more powerful than the 6.0 model and only about one hundred and fifty dollars more. People are choosing the more powerful wand since it requires less time of use", he concluded. USA Med Bed, LLC ships Terahertz Wands from San Diego California and Richmond Virginia.

Terahertz Wands are a top selling energy and frequency type technology. These devices are becoming popular through word of mouth and referrals with the 7.0 Terahertz Wand model becoming a best seller.”
