

Colleyville Attorney Kate Smith selected to Thomson Reuters Super Lawyers list

COLLEYVILLE, TEXAS, UNITED STATES, April 26, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- North Texas family law, estate planning and business law attorney Kate Smith has been selected to the Thomson Reuters Super Lawyers list for the second year in a row. Super Lawyers is a peer influenced and research driven rating service of outstanding lawyers that selects only the top 5% of attorneys in the United States each year.

"It is truly an honor to be selected again to the Thomson Reuters Super Lawyers list," Kate Smith said. "I'm proud of my extensive experience as a board-certified family law attorney and remain committed to helping clients stay out of the courtroom and resolve their issues amicably through the Collaborative Divorce process."

Collaborative Divorce is a more peaceful process for resolving family law disputes where spouses work with a team of lawyers, child specialists, mental health professionals and financial coaches to craft their divorce agreements. Together, these professionals help clients share important documents, set goals and reach agreements that meet their family's needs. This approach protects the couple's children and makes it easier to preserve future co-parenting relationships.

In Collaborative Divorce, decisions are made by the couple without going to court or involving a judge or other third-party decision maker. This protects the couple's privacy and often reduces much of the expense and stress associated with litigation. The Collaborative Divorce process, as advocated for by members of the International Academy of Collaborative Professionals (IACP), has been nominated for the 2023 Nobel Peace Prize for transforming the way families resolve
