The American Business Awards are the U.S.A.'s premier business awards program. All organizations operating in the U.S.A. are eligible to submit nominations – public and private, for-profit and non-profit, large and small. Nicknamed the Stevies for the Greek word meaning “crowned,” the awards will be presented to winners at a gala ceremony at the Marriott Marquis Hotel in New York on Tuesday, June 13. Tickets are now on sale.

More than 3,700 nominations from organizations of all sizes and in virtually every industry were submitted this year for consideration in a wide range of categories, including Startup of the Year, Executive of the Year, Best New Product or Service of the Year, Marketing Campaign of the Year, Thought Leader of the Year, and App of the Year, among others. More than 230 professionals worldwide participated in the judging process to select this year's Stevie Award winners.

Sourgum Waste, an NJ-based waste & recycling startup that offers on-demand waste services through its proprietary technology and network of vetted haulers, reaped four Stevie Awards out of the eight for which they were nominated.

The judges recognized Sourgum's strong vision for revolutionizing the waste management industry through technology and sustainability and lauded the company's significant growth and success over the past few years. One judge noted that "Sourgum Waste's distinct approach to waste and recycling services, particularly its haulsourcing model, distinguishes them from their competitors and positions them as an industry leader." Many others agreed that addressing challenges with the waste & recycling industry regarding sustainability was longtime overdue and that Sourgum was uniquely placed to do so.

Sourgum Waste's management team was pleasantly surprised to receive the Achievement in Management award, which a member of the team nominated them for. The judges showed an overwhelming vote of confidence in the young company's leadership and culture. "The Sourgum Waste C-Suite and D-Suite demonstrate a strong commitment to collaboration, honesty, and open communication, which has fostered a supportive and innovative work environment. Their achievements in company growth, sustainability, diversity, and business strategy are commendable." one of them noted.

"We are honored to have been named as winners in the 21st Annual American Business Awards®," said Sourgum Waste CEO Joe Dinardi-Mack. "This recognition is a testament to the skill and dedication of our people who work hard every day to tackle the problem of waste in a modern and sustainable way. We are grateful for this prestigious award and remain committed to delivering exceptional services to our clients, and a fulfilling work environment to our team members."

"It is very gratifying for us to be able to recognize the achievements of such a wide variety of organizations, teams, and individuals in the 21st ABAs, and we look forward to bringing them together in New York on June 13 to celebrate with them," said Maggie Miller, president of the Stevie Awards.
