completion, from initiation to live use, in less than 24 business hours.

“Small Business clients need fast, affordable, and compliant employment screening services to compete in today's tight labor markets” states Dan Filby, CEO of AccuSourceHR. “With RapidSource, clients can easily set up an account and initiate their first background screen request within a matter of hours not days. Many of the quick set-up online options in the background screening marketplace heavily rely on database services which are not compliant with FCRA (Fair Credit Reporting Act) requirements for employment use. Accounts set up through RapidSource have access to direct court record and verifications services to ensure Small Business employers remain compliant while still enjoying ease of use and rapid access to services they need to make informed hiring decisions.”

When it comes to hiring and onboarding new employees, small businesses have unique needs. Speed and agility are critical. Unlike mid-size, large, and enterprise businesses, they normally do not have defined Human Resources departments and if they do, it is often a single staff member juggling multiple functions. It is uncommon for small businesses to have a large concentration of employees in specific positions. In terms of employment screening, they need one solid base package to meet their needs for most new hires plus a menu of specialty services for occasions when they hire for a position with unique risk mitigation needs. Onboarding is often accompanied by an intense sense of urgency to complete the process. They are best served with quick set-up and the ability to process their first screen immediately. While small businesses do not hire at the same volume as their larger counterparts, they are subject to the same complex framework of federal, state, and local regulations and requirements. With AccuSourceHR's RapidSource, they have rapid access to quality screening solutions to protect their business and workforce coupled with easy access to tools and resources to ensure compliance.
