

The Voice of "Air" is Claire Marie

Memorable vocal on popular new release belongs to soulful young artist.

WASHINGTON, DC, USA, April 28, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- At the end of the album, on its last track, suddenly there is a fresh sound that captures your attention, a voice like a warm breeze lifts the music upward. Meet Claire Marie. A bright young singer with a standout performance on the new independent release, Enter the Muses.

Claire Marie has quietly thrived in the indie music scene for years. Her rich alto was a prized feature of the DC a cappella group, the Vibes. Last year her vocal, "One and Only" was a top streaming track on her collaborator Ed Gumbrecht's debut album, Colorshow.

Now "Air" is the song garnering attention for the singer's artful performance. It was originally intended as an ensemble piece with full band, broad harmonies and a strong beat. When Claire Marie recorded her vocal track, producer Eric Michael Lichter changed direction. "Claire's interpretation of the lyric and melody was pure. We adjusted the music to follow her lead." The result is a beautiful rendering of the rhythmic wind as it makes its way through the events of our lives. Claire's voice carries the song high above small worries.

Canada's Jaqueline Jax of AVA Radio named "Air" an early selection for Best Independent Song of 2023. She says, "Claire Marie's poetic delivery is like a refreshing breeze."

Rock Cabeza boasts "It reminds us of the Taylor Swift duo with Bon Iver on Folklore." And The Hand Edition raves, "Claire Marie's voice is truly charismatic. It draws you into this atmosphere that you wish would never end!"
