

Akopyan Law Firm, A.P.C. Continues to Offer Legal Help to Wrongfully Terminated Employees in SoCal

One of California's top employment law firms offers legal representation to employees who may have been wrongfully terminated from their jobs.

BURBANK, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, May 1, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Representatives of the Akopyan Law Firm, A.P.C. announced today that the Akopyan Law Firm, A.P.C. continues to provide representation to wrongfully terminated employees in SoCal.

"In California, there are laws which limit an employer's right to terminate its employees," said Michael Akopyan, founder and partner at the Akopyan Law Firm, and added, "An employee cannot be terminated for reasons that violate the law. We routinely represent and fight for employees who have been wrongfully terminated from their jobs for illegal reasons in SoCal."

Those who have been fired from their jobs often ask:

- My employer claims they terminated me because of my performance, but I believe I was terminated because I rejected my boss' sexual advances. What do I do?
- I asked my employer to provide me an accommodation due to my pregnancy, and they told me that they could not do it. One week later, I was fired; do I have any rights?
- My employer terminated me because I opposed its discriminatory policies. Do I have any rights?
- Can I sue my supervisor for wrongfully terminating me?
- I think it was unfair that I was fired, but how do I know if my employer terminated me wrongfully?
- What if I am an independent contractor; can I sue for wrongful termination?

Anyone asking themselves above questions should consider consulting with an experienced wrongful termination attorney. "We offer complimentary case evaluations to folks who feel that they have been wrongfully terminated from their jobs," Akopyan said. "Victims of wrongful termination should contact an unlawful termination attorney to discuss their specific situation and see if they have a case."
