wearable technology and scientific services for academic research and clinical drug development, has entered into a new partnership with First Nation Group. First Nation Group delivers cost-effective medical equipment and therapy solutions for U.S. Federal Government providers, with a focus on making a positive impact on the lives of Veterans and active-duty military personnel.

First Nation Group is at the forefront of the medical equipment industry, delivering superior products, services, and support to customers. This partnership with ActiGraph will enable the company to supply trusted, research-grade digital health technologies (DHTs) that collect digital measures on the health and behavior of patients. Remote monitoring with easy-to-use wearable DHTs reduces the burden on patients and provides insight into how they move and sleep in their natural environment.

“First Nation Group's partnership with ActiGraph, a pioneer of digital transformation for clinical research, delivers innovative digital health technology to Government customers,” says Terry Latkovic, Vice President of Corporate Initiatives, First Nation Group. “Actigraphy is an important assessment tool that helps diagnose sleep disorders and evaluate sleep behavior, which is instrumental in supporting Veterans' overall health and military readiness. This wearable technology will be a game changer for sleep clinicians serving VA patients and service members.”

First Nation Group is headquartered in Niceville, FL, with administrative offices in Fort Myers, FL, and Ann Arbor, MI, and sales offices strategically located near U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) and U.S. Department of Defense (DoD) facilities nationwide.

“Not only do ActiGraph and First Nation Group align on the importance of driving technological innovation in healthcare, but we also share many of the same core values,” says Robert Goodman, Chief Commercial Officer, ActiGraph. “As a Veteran myself, I appreciate everything they do to care for members of the U.S. military, and I am glad ActiGraph’s technology is able to support those efforts. This strategic partnership plays a key role in the growth of ActiGraph and how we serve our customers, and I look forward to seeing this relationship prosper as our teams continue to work closely together.”
