On joining CalypsoAI's Advisory Board, Dr. McGraw said,

"Machine learning security as a field reminds me of software security 23 years ago. The rapid expansion of ML into diverse enterprise applications, and especially the incredible pace of LLM adoption, demands rigor and precision when it comes to security, reliability, and trustworthiness. CalypsoAI is leading the world in creating technical controls that manage AI risk appropriately."

Dr. McGraw's presence on the board will ensure CalypsoAI continues to offer groundbreaking solutions for the biggest challenges facing AI deployment across the enterprise. The company's most recent product offerings include CalypsoAI Moderator, which enables the safe, secure use of Large Language Models at scale for organizations of any size, and VESPR Validate 2.0, which enables deployment of trustworthy, reliable AI through model performance testing and validation.
