Born to an upper-class Jewish family and raised among the glitterati of Hollywood, Sadhviji's childhood was filled with dark secrets about sexual abuse, depression, anxiety, and bulimia. She studied at Stanford University and, received a Ph.D. in psychology. In the summer of 1996, her life unexpectedly changed forever when she reluctantly went on a trip to India with her then-husband, Sadhviji experienced an unexpected miraculous healing in the sacred Ganges River in Rishikesh where she was transformed and filled with the unshakable belief that she was destined to walk a new path in life. She gave up everything she knew and got ordained into the monastic tradition of sanyas by one of India's most revered spiritual masters.

In addition to being a renowned spiritual leader, motivational speaker, social activist, and best-selling author. Sadhviji is also a leader in the fields of environmental protection, women's empowerment, gender equality, interfaith harmony and dialogue, climate action, and more, working with the United Nations, World Bank, Religions for Peace, and many other organisations worldwide.

In these times, which can often feel overwhelming and chaotic, Sadhviji demonstrates the rare ability to translate complex spiritual concepts into an accessible and relatable language. She draws on her own life experiences and calls forth wisdom from the Hindu scriptures to offer practical guidance grounded in love, compassion, and service. Through her work and teachings, she emphasizes the potential of the human spirit to transcend even the most difficult of life circumstances to create a more just, peaceful, and loving world, and live in a more meaningful, purposeful, and fulfilling way.

At this event you have the opportunity to experience an evening of miraculous transformation and, as Sadhviji says, "Go to the Himalayas in your heart."

This evening is presented by Filmmaker Neha Lohia, for all of the Western and Eastern minds in NYC, all who are ready, to celebrate and partake of Sadhviji's wisdom and journey from Hollywood to the Himalayas, which is a testament to the power of transformation and the human spirit's resilience. This event is wholeheartedly supported by the Consulate General of India (NY), Dr. Navin Mehta (Chairman and Director of Bharatiya Vidya Bhawan), Minesh Patel, TV Asia USA, Shiv Khemka (Vice Chairman of Sun Group Global), Tirlok Malik (CEO of Apple Productions Inc), Katha Cato and Don Preston Cato (Chip away Productions), Prashant Goyal (Heritage India Fashions) and several others from the Indian-American and the New York media and entertainment communities.
