The new range features an extensive selection of corrugated boxes, including popular sizes such as 10x10x10, 9x9x9, and 12x12x12, along with specialty dimensions like 25x7, 9x4, 2x2x2, and 40x12. These boxes have been carefully crafted using high-quality corrugated cardboard to ensure maximum durability, strength, and protection during shipping.

In addition to shipping boxes, The Boxery's latest lineup also includes a variety of poly bags and shipping bags. This new selection offers customers a diverse range of options in terms of size, thickness, and material, such as kraft paper, to accommodate different packaging requirements. With these new additions, The Boxery further solidifies its position as a comprehensive provider of shipping solutions.

The launch of The Boxery's new range of shipping boxes and bags comes amid growing concerns about the environmental impact of packaging materials. In response, the company has prioritized the use of eco-friendly and sustainable materials in the production of its latest offerings. This initiative aligns with The Boxery's long-term commitment to reducing its carbon footprint and promoting environmentally responsible business practices.
