drivers do not know how to properly conduct themselves at traffic stops. While many people are conscious and law abiding drivers, it's not uncommon to make mistakes, and get pulled over at least once in a driver's lifetime. These situations are generally perceived as stressful, and in an effort to empower drivers and ease the stress of law enforcement interactions, DriveSafe and Detective Shefali Arain created a "how to" video for drivers to understand proper traffic stop protocol. Further, DriveSafe is committed to providing their students the best-quality drivers' education and plans to implement each video into their curriculum. DriveSafe currently addresses emotional management, road rage, and parking lot safety within their classes, but they wanted to create these videos, with the intent to share with all drivers in the community.
