Emergen Research

latest analysis by Emergen Research. Rising demand for LED lighting systems in residential interior designing and home decorating applications can be attributed to the steady revenue growth of the Light-Emitting Diode (LED) lighting market. One has a beautiful selection of LED lights which include, pendant lights, wall scones, bedside lamps, and more to choose from, depending on the style, size, and color temperature of the lighting. In addition to providing additional illumination, decorative lights for the home can also add a glamorous touch and improve the room's overall appearance and atmosphere. So, no matter the occasion, a mix and match of any of the indoor lights can liven up the area and create the right mood.

Market revenue growth is expected to be restrained in the short- to medium-term by the ongoing Russia-Ukraine war and the U.S.-China trade dispute. Lighting fixtures, luminaires, and bulbs are primarily produced in China and the U.S. Everywhere, the U.S.-China trade war is affecting import and export possibilities. The fall was mostly brought on by a sharp decline in imports from China since tariffs were in place on almost USD 370 billion in Chinese shipments to the U.S. This has a big effect on the lighting industry, especially LED-based lighting goods. The protracted conflict between Russia and Ukraine is also expected to have an impact on international trade and business.
