/EINPresswire.com/ -- Pharos Systems International, a leading cloud services and technology company specializing in print management software, is excited to sponsor the Gartner Digital

Workplace Summit in San Diego on June 12-13, 2023, which brings together many of the world's largest enterprises to discuss the power of digital transformation in the workplace.

The theme of this year's summit is "The Power to Transform Work," which aims to inspire

I'm thrilled to attend the Gartner Digital Workplace Summit to showcase how Pharos offers seamless cloud-based printing, boosting IT efficiency & enhancing employee experience for global enterprises.”

Josh Orum, Chief Marketing Officer, Pharos

Gartner sponsors and attendees to explore and solve challenges that help companies adapt to the constantly changing demands of the modern workplace. The goal is to provide businesses with innovative new ideas that enable them to reimagine how their employees interact, collaborate, and connect.

Pharos is looking forward to connecting with attendees who are considering what the future of work will look like for their organizations—particularly how migrating their print infrastructure to the cloud can transform their digital work environments and support their increasingly mobile and hybrid workforce.

Pharos Chief Marketing Officer, Josh Orum, will attend the event in person, along with other key Pharos team members. Together, they will discuss and showcase the power of Pharos Cloud, an ISO 27001-certified print management and optimization platform designed specifically to help large organizations deal with the complexity of enterprise printing by eliminating print servers, enhancing security, driving IT staff efficiency, and supporting an increasingly mobile workforce.

"I'm thrilled to be able to attend this event in person. Print continues to play a role in the day-to-day lives of employees, whether they have returned to the office or are working from home, while also playing an outsized role in the lives of the IT professionals who administer it. By offering enterprise cloud-based printing that just works, Pharos helps some of the largest companies in the world to drive IT staff efficiency while improving their employee experience," said Josh Orum, Chief Marketing Officer.

Visitors to the Pharos booth will be able to speak with a knowledgeable team of experts to discuss their print environments and get an exclusive one-on-one introduction to the Pharos Cloud solution. Pharos is proud to sponsor the upcoming conference and delve deeper into how print plays a pivotal part in digital transformation.
