Georgia has been one of the primary concerns for securing our elections after many questions about accurate voter roles and the True the Vote investigation findings. With improbable statistics and countless anomalies Georgia voters want transparency. Election integrity is a key issue for many of the party candidates making their pitch to the delegates.

Jeffords is a plaintiff in a Georgia election integrity litigation which has received national media attention. In a ruling , positive for Jeffords, The Georgia Supreme Court remanded Caroline Jeffords v. Fulton County docket S22C1299 finding the case has standing.

With it reported Georgia Governor Kemp will not be attending the convention after calling for an alternative to the GOP, causing division, Jeffords and the rest of the Trump ticket offer a message of unity. Veterans for Trump has also offered the olive branch meeting with Georgia Legislatures to find common ground going forward to unite the party. With 70% of the new delegates expected to be voting for candidates that are supportive of President Trump ,and the America First agenda, the results may shake up the establishment.
