VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA,
CANADA, May 9, 2023

/EINPresswire.com/ -- The global threat intelligence market size is expected to reach USD 20.28 billion at a steady CAGR of 8.1% in 2028, according to the latest analysis by Emergen Research.

Steady revenue growth in the global threat intelligence market can be attributed to increasing cyber-attacks and concerns regarding the constant need for high-level vigilance in this regard. Real-time threat intelligence finds use in maintaining visibility of the threat landscape to enable security infrastructure and respond to the latest cybersecurity threats. Threat intelligence helps in the detection of malicious activity in an organization's network and performs analyses to provide insights about the objective behind a cyberattack. Organizations across the globe are focusing on the integration of threat intelligence with cybersecurity infrastructure to enhance their cybersecurity levels. Live feeds and warnings provided by threat intelligence about ongoing security incidents, new technologies, and active threats allow security teams to take instant actions to mitigate or prevent potential threats more efficiently.

The threat intelligence market refers to the collection, analysis, and dissemination of information related to potential or existing security threats to organizations. The market encompasses various types of threat intelligence, including strategic, tactical, and operational intelligence.

Strategic intelligence involves analyzing global trends, emerging threats, and geopolitical events that could impact an organization's security posture. Tactical intelligence is more focused on specific threats, such as malware or phishing attacks, and provides insights into how these threats operate. Operational intelligence is more real-time and provides information on current security events and incidents.

Some Key Highlights in the Report

In January 2020, Thales entered into a partnership agreement with GE Steam Power to provide a cybersecurity solutions suite for power plant operations.

The retail industry is observing vast volumes of data being generated via various channels including blogs, social networking platforms and sites, and apps. Transformation of the retail industry is not restricted to the e-commerce channel. Numerous connected devices are point-of-sale systems at kiosks and handheld devices are used in physical stores, all of which are designed to gather and access customer information. The growing data volumes in the retail industry continues to drive demand for threat intelligence to prevent data breaches and potential data loss.

Among the mode of deployment segments, cloud-based segment revenue is expected to register a comparatively faster growth rate during the forecast period. Cloud-based adoption and deployment continues to remain high among small and medium-sized enterprises, owing to the cost-effectiveness of this mode. Cloud-based deployment saves significant capital expenses by reducing expenditure on infrastructure, equipment, and software. In addition, cloud-based deployment provides enhanced scalability to enterprises.

Threat intelligence market in North America accounted for largest revenue share as compared to other regional markets in 2020 owing to high incidence of cyber threats, data breaches, and robust presence of several IT & telecom and BFSI companies in countries in the region. Additionally, presence of leading threat intelligence solution providers such as IBM Corporation, VMware Inc., Cisco, and DXC Technology are causative of robust market growth in the region.
