

Award-Winning Recording Artist Brian De Lorenzo Releases Debut Songwriting Single “Things Will Get Better” on May 19th

De Lorenzo Was Named Talent America’s “Performer of the Year” and “Top Ten of New York Cabaret”

BOSTON, MA, USA, May 10, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Vocalist Brian De Lorenzo will release the song “Things Will Get Better,” the first song for which he wrote both music and lyrics, on Friday, May 19, on all popular music sites including Apple Music, Spotify, Amazon Music, YouTube, and Pandora.

Music lovers everywhere who want to be among the first to hear it can Pre-Save the track on their favorite digital platform.

During the pandemic lockdown, De Lorenzo took up songwriting, after realizing that for many years, he had suppressed a desire to write.

“Many of us were feeling extremely sad or even depressed, because we were separated from friends and family for so long,” says De Lorenzo. The phrase “Things will get better” popped into De Lorenzo’s head and he turned it into an inspirational song, which he debuted at a performance in Boston last year, accompanied by his longtime accompanist and collaborator Doug Hammer.

Brian & Doug took the collaboration into the recording studio, and now Brian is ready for the world to hear it.

De Lorenzo's first album, "Found Treasures," a collection of lesser-known and lesser-performed songs from musical theatre, was nominated for "Best Recording" by the Manhattan Association of Cabarets and Clubs (MAC).
