VidRTC is the latest addition to Softermii's impressive portfolio. This customizable engine is designed to enhance internal and external business communications, streamlining the process for companies looking to implement advanced video and audio conferencing solutions. VidRTC has already proven its effectiveness in developing several innovative products, such as Events10X and HIPAA Video.

Events10X is an online and hybrid events service provider that leverages VidRTC's capabilities to organize conferences and exhibitions with private and group networking. The platform simultaneously supports video calls, messaging, and broadcasting to over 15,000 people. Despite tight deadlines, the virtual expo software solution was instrumental in launching a significant international online event. Softermii's team, utilizing VidRTC, excelled in the process and delivered a fully functional solution. As a testament to their success, the UAE Ministry of Economy awarded Softermii for developing the Events10X solution. The platform enabled the ministry to bring over 16,000 local and international attendees online during the pandemic.

Another notable application of VidRTC is HIPAA Video, a web-based communications and video conferencing solution compliant with HIPAA standards. Developed by a US-based startup, HIPAA Video revolutionizes doctor-patient relationships. It aims to reduce healthcare costs worldwide by offering an online medium for interaction between physicians and patients. The project, completed in less than a year, showcases the power of VidRTC. Softermii's team built a robust web tech health application compatible with all browsers, addressing doctors' and patients' needs for medical data storage, transfer, and scheduling.

The launch of VidRTC solidifies Softermii's position as a leading innovator in the software development and technology partnership landscape. VidRTC's adaptability and versatility make it an ideal solution for businesses looking to enhance their communications infrastructure. By combining this cutting-edge technology with Softermii's expert development and staff augmentation services, the company continues to deliver unparalleled value to its clients.
