The back story begins with the World Health Organization commissioning 2020 to be a worldwide "Year of the Nurse" celebration. Covid-19 stole it. And Pamela Jane Nye is the motivated and determined nurse who created and leads the mission to take it back!

And while Covid -019, its variant restrictions, and a reneged-upon sponsorship delayed Nye's take-back mission plans, the planets seemingly aligned because May 12 is Nye's gifting date of THE NURSES WALL, hosting the NightinGala celebration recognizing nurse icon, Florence Nightingale's 203rd birthday celebration.

It's also the day nurse Nye and her Operation Scrubs nonprofit made good on all 2020 event-hosting agreements and promises.

To celebrate with Nye, she's invited 100 nurses, many of them, like Nye, are Clinical Nurse Specialists. Some invitees are working nurse scholarship recipients and UCLA School of Nursing graduate students.

Streaming live and recorded, this red-carpet event takes place aboard FantaSea One, a 4-deck entertainment yacht located in Marina Del Rey, California. Late morning and early evening festivities include a welcoming reception, tuition-free accredited continuing nurse education, acclaimed national nurse leader speakers, buffet lunch, THE NURSES WALL gifting, gourmet dinner cruise and live entertainment.

Note from Nye: "I'd appreciate all news media staff posting a nurse-thanking message on THE NURSES WALL. Then invite their listening, reading and viewing audience to join them. Besides, what's not to like about saying 'thank you' to the world's 20+ million nurses, and memorializing the 2,500+ nurse lives taken during the Battle of Covid-19?"

P.S. Remember, this is National Nurses Month so why not have your own nurse-thanking team, e.g., mine is "Team Pam." If "yes," sent an email to chuckfoster@operationscrubs.org. In the subjects bar write "Team Request."
