end-to-end OTT solutions, has announced its partnership with BledFlix, a new Middle Eastern OTT service. This collaboration aims to bring high-quality digital video solutions to the North African markets and diaspora, including live TV channels and hundreds of hours of TV shows from across the region.

BledFlix features ten live TV channels, including popular networks such as Samira and Nessma TV, as well as an extensive library of TV shows. The service will be the most comprehensive and dedicated solution for the North African market, and it will be available on Mobile Web, iOS and Android mobile devices, with plans to roll out to connected TVs.

The service is multilingual, offering content in French, Arabic, and English. It will also operate as a hybrid AVOD/SVOD service, allowing users to access both ad-supported and subscription-based content.

David McDonald, COO of FlixForge, expressed his passion for the partnership, saying, "We are delighted to be working with Adel and the BledFlix team on this groundbreaking new service for the North African market. The combination of FlixForge's market-leading OTT solution and the extensive live TV and catch-up series available on the service delivers a compelling new option for North African communities around the world."

Adel Hamla, Founder of BledFlix, shared his enthusiasm, stating, "We're very excited to be launching BledFlix with FlixForge, our OTT platform partner. BledFlix brings together the very best live and catch-up content for the North African region and global diaspora. We believe that the region is underserved with easily accessible and comprehensive digital film and TV content, and BledFlix delivers the perfect experience."

The partnership between FlixForge and BledFlix aims to deliver a top-quality OTT service to North African audiences, providing them with an unmatched viewing experience that is both convenient and comprehensive.
