"We are excited to launch the latest update of Work-Relay and provide our customers with even more features to help them accelerate order-to-cash operations," said Kramer Reeves, Executive Vice President of Work-Relay. "With Work-Relay 6.5, it's easier than ever for workers to meet deadlines, increase revenues, and boost customer satisfaction for our client's end customers."

In the journey to end-to-end automation, implementing a solution that streamlines order-to-cash is a crucial step. With the newest round of updates, Work-Relay adds additional capabilities that further empower organizations to manage complex processes and workflows from one application. Key enhancements include:

- Simplified Form Management
- New, Dynamic Options for Setting Task Priority
- Enhanced Filtering for Precision Task Execution
- Accelerated Performance for Dependent Picklists
- Flexible Licensing for Occasional and Community Users
- Alignment with Latest Salesforce Releases

Organizations across several different industries currently leverage the benefits of Work-Relay to optimize complex operations with great results. "Across the Communications Sector, digitization is paramount and within each company, the order-to-cash and fulfillment operations are some of the most complex to digitize," said Jake Farrow, CEO of JTF Wireless, a Work-Relay client. "With our rapid growth, especially within the healthcare and pharma industries, we need end-to-end digitization, visibility and focus of all our tasks, sequenced and project-managed in an integrated fashion, all within Salesforce. It's a big ask and Work-Relay was chosen specifically for this reason."

Work-Relay is holding a live demonstration of the new features via webinar on May 25, 2023. To register for the demonstration, visit their website.
