Nelson Alves, the editor of Newstrail.com said: "While our reviewers might wish they had the superpower to evaluate every hotel on this planet, the reality of human limitations has nudged us to trim the list down. Remember, these rankings aren't set in stone but rather, they're as lively as a chameleon on a rainbow, constantly changing to reflect the pulsating standards of excellence in the hospitality industry".

In the vast tapestry of the hospitality industry, there exist unsung heroes yet to be discovered by the wider world. These are the little-known but excellently managed family-run hotels, each with their unique charm and heartwarming hospitality. They are the hidden gems that provide intimate, personalized experiences that often surpass those offered by larger establishments. Alves added that: "At Newstrail, we understand that size doesn't always equate to quality and, as such, we're turning our lens towards these smaller hotels in the near future. We're excited to shine a spotlight on these under-recognized establishments, unveiling their unique offerings to our discerning readership and the wider world. In the hospitality industry, every detail matters, and we're eager to celebrate those who excel on a smaller scale but with no less passion and dedication".
