The offshore wind market is experiencing significant growth and has emerged as a key player in the renewable energy sector. Offshore wind farms, located in coastal waters, harness the power of wind to generate electricity on a large scale. This market is driven by several factors, including the increasing global demand for clean energy, government initiatives to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, and advancements in wind turbine technology. Offshore wind offers numerous advantages, such as strong and consistent wind resources, larger turbine capacities, and reduced visual impact on land. Major markets for offshore wind include Europe, particularly the United Kingdom, Germany, and Denmark, along with emerging markets in Asia, such as China and Taiwan. The industry is characterized by significant investments in project development, turbine manufacturing, and offshore infrastructure.

Worldwide major and leading players within the market are:

- MHI Vestas
- Siemens AG
- General Electric
- ABB Ltd.
- EEW Group
- Nexans
