ArmRLite Overhead Garage Door Manufacturer

ArmRLite's step-over man doors are ideal for residential or commercial private use, where the public will not use the walk-through door as an egress. Their welded aluminum and glass overhead garage doors with step-over man doors provide mechanics with a convenient and durable access door at gas stations, service stations, and repair shops. The garage doors with step-over man doors come in different colors and can be manufactured between 7'0" and 16'0" wide and between 7'0" and 14'0" tall. ArmRLite's welded garage doors with step-over man doors are available in a variety of glass and solid or perforated panels, and are covered by a 5-year frame warranty. The step-over door can include 1/8" tempered glass or light glazing and comes with a 4" bottom bar which makes it unsuitable for public egress. ArmRLite's step-over man door is available in their welded aluminum Electra® and Titan® models.

Since 1958, ArmRLite has been trusted by customers nationwide to provide top-quality garage door solutions with walk-through access. As they continue to innovate in the industry, ArmRLite is proud to offer these customizable garage doors with walk-through man doors that will enhance the appearance of any home or business.
