QUEBEC, CANADA, May 22, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The National Safe Boating Awareness Week promotes safe and responsible boating practices across North America. As more North American boaters are out on our waters, increased traffic is leading to more boating-related incidents.

The National Safe Boating Awareness Week reminds them of the importance of refreshing their safety knowledge before going out this spring.

In this year's Boating Safety Awareness week, Aceboater.com wants to offer in this week the course at 50% off all week.

Just use the code BOATSAFETYAWARENESS to take advantage of this discount.

Aceboater.com, which is a course provider accredited by Transport Canada and The National Association of State Boating Law Administrators, is proud to have trained over 500 000 boaters over the past 22 years all over North America.

The National Safe Boating Awareness Week messages this season are:

1. Wear a life jacket

Statistics show that drowning was the reported cause of death in four out of every five recreational boating fatalities in 2020, and that 80 percent of those who drowned were not wearing life jackets.
