"We are thrilled to support the highly respected Albers School of Business and Economics," said Brenda Croft, Pacific Northwest Market Leader for RSM US LLP. "As the nation's leading provider of assurance, tax and consulting services focused on the middle market, sponsoring The Leadership Playbook Podcast delivers on our commitment to bring insights from the nation's top executives to the wider Puget Sound business community."

Hosted by Dean Phillips, The Leadership Playbook podcast asks top executives from the business world's most recognizable brands and companies about their career journeys, their leadership secrets, and the biggest obstacles they've faced and overcome. Executives who've been featured include Microsoft CFO Amy Hood, Trek Bikes CEO John Burke, Accolade CEO Rajeev Singh, DreamBox Learning President & CEO Jessie Woolley-Wilson, Alaska Air Group Chairman Brad Tilden, former Washington state Governor Christine Gregoire, REI Co-op President & CEO Eric Artz, Puget Sound Energy CEO Mary E. Kipp, Seattle Mariners President of Business Operations Catie Griggs, and Brooks Running CEO Jim Weber.

About The Leadership Playbook Podcast

Ever wondered about the journeys successful business leaders took to get to where they are? Looking to learn more about leadership to build a better team or advance your own career? Going through work challenges and want to know how top executives resolved similar situations? The Leadership Playbook podcast asks top executives from the business world's most recognizable brands and companies about the stories behind their success, their leadership secrets, and the biggest obstacles they've faced and overcome. Candid, often humorous, and always inspiring, think of The Leadership Playbook as a mini-MBA on how to become the best leader you could ever be. The podcast is produced by the Albers School of Business and Economics and hosted by Albers Dean Joseph M. Phillips.
