MSA is one of the most recognized school accreditation agencies in the world among educators. MSA accreditation can be earned by qualifying public, private and faith-based schools in more than 100 countries around the globe. Accreditation involves a multifaceted evaluation process where schools and school systems demonstrate meeting a defined set of research-based performance standards.

The Middle States Standards for Accreditation are: mission; governance and leadership; school improvement planning; finances; facilities; school organization and staff; health and safety; educational program; assessment and evidence of student learning; student services; student life and activities; and information resources.

“The MSA accreditation is a vital part of our strategic plan for the future, rooted in continuous improvement.” said Laurie Detweiler, EVP and Founder of Veritas. “It is a formal acknowledgement of our school’s dedication to collaboration, growth and the advancement of student achievement.”

MSA re-accreditation has been awarded to Veritas using the Excellence by Design protocol for the longest term available of seven years. This self-study and accreditation protocol serves as a framework for using strategic planning to establish objectives for both student performance and the school's ability to facilitate growth.
