/EINPresswire.com/ -- Lance Dyer's 14-year-old son only experimented with synthetic cannabinoids once. And it was the last thing the boy ever did.

"When there's death involved," Dyer says in an episode of "Voices for Humanity" on the Scientology Network, "the ramifications of your choices go way past you getting high."

"Voices for Humanity" is a weekly series presenting heroic change-makers from a variety of faiths, cultures and nations working to uplift their communities. It airs Wednesdays at 8 p.m. ET/PT on the Scientology Network.

Founder and Director of the Dakota Dyer Foundation and a former Army Ranger, Dyer is leading the fight to end the distribution and use of synthetics and other deadly drugs.

In his episode of "Voices for Humanity," Dyer reveals how synthetic cannabinoids are created with deadly ingredients and that the marketing strategy is to make them appeal to children and adolescents. He realized that to save lives, education would have to be paramount.

When Dyer found a copy of the Truth About Drugs, a booklet produced and distributed by Foundation for a Drug-Free World, he knew this was exactly what he needed. Dyer called the Foundation's headquarters in Los Angeles, "and every time I asked for something," he says, "there it was...and it was free." He credits his partnership with Foundation for a Drug-Free World not only with providing exactly the drug education he needed to get through to kids, but also the exact material he could use to educate legislators in his campaign to see that these deadly
