About Arrigoni Winery:

Family owned and operated, the inspiration for Arrigoni Winery was introduced by boxing champion John “Jack LaSalle” Gherlone – grandfather to the current winery owner. A second-generation Italian immigrant, Gherlone died in 1997 at age 96 – but not before passing on his love of oenology – the science and study of winemaking – to his grandson, and now his great-granddaughter.

Gherlone taught his young grandson how to crush best and press the grapes to extract juices from the skins, and also how to properly barrel wines so they would age into favored wine varieties.
