Europe Dairy Market Trends

Europe's dairy industry is one of the most developed in the world, producing over a quarter of all milk produced worldwide. With growing GDP and improving living standards in Western Europe, the dairy sector will enjoy robust expansion in the next years.

Germany, on the other hand, was the only market in the area to rise in 2017, while the UK suffered a fall. Italy, in Southern Europe, too has a thriving dairy sector, thanks to the mild Mediterranean environment and rising living standards.

On the other hand, dairy output in eastern and south-eastern Europe is just sufficient for local consumption. Niche items such as "lactose-free" or "organic" milk are expensive in the area, thus the nations must import them from Northern and Western Europe.

Dairy production in Europe as a whole has been reduced as milk prices have fallen. The European Union's milk quota will also function as a constraint on the growth of the European dairy market.

Key Market Players

The major players in the market are Nestlé S.A., Danone S.A., Groupe Lactalis, Royal FrieslandCampina N.V., Arla Foods amba, Unilever, DMK Deutsches Milchkontor GmbH., Sodiaal International SA., Savencia S.A., Müller Group, among others. The report covers the market shares, capacities, plant turnarounds, expansions, investments and mergers and acquisitions, among other latest developments of these market players.
