Produced by America 1st Productions, the groundbreaking film also features the voices of Holocaust survivor Vera Sharav—who draws disturbing parallels between murderous US driven 21st century COVID public health protocols and the 20th century mass murder campaigns committed by the Nazis and the Soviets—as well as the voices of Doctor Renata Moon and Erin Olszewski, RN, who call on all medical professionals of conscience to speak out on behalf of humanity at this critical moment.

Scott Schara v. Ascension Health et al. alleges that Grace’s death at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Appleton, WI was the direct result of medical staff administering a lethal combination of drugs well-known to hasten severe hypoxia and result in death. The suit also alleges that hospital personnel refused to perform life-saving measures, and that one of Grace's doctors had fraudulently designated her as a "Do Not Resuscitate" (DNR) patient.
