

Automate Accounts Payable and Receivables (AP / AR) Processes with IBN Technologies

IBN Technologies is a leading third-party AP / AR automation solution provider and outsourced finance and accounting services partner for US businesses.

MIAMI, FL, US, May 29, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/
-- Automation of accounts receivable (AR) and accounts payable (AP) processes aim at freeing the time of human resources doing mundane and manual accounting, data entry related tasks. In addition to automating these AP / AR steps, the benefits of higher efficiency due to less errors along with enabling resources to focus on more important accounting work are huge positives for any small business.

We pride ourselves in partnering with USA small businesses to help them save up to 50% on their operational costs when it comes to finance and accounting functions.

Although many business owners are unaware of how AP / AR automation might benefit their organization, these services help in expanding their business. A lot of decision makers all too frequently believe that overall finance and accounting can only help in conventional ways, such as with bookkeeping, record keeping, as well as payroll processes. Even though those are very important tasks that must be completed precisely, this way of thinking restricts the actual range of what outsourced accounting and financial services may offer. A critical component of expanding any business is using technology in processes that free up time, resources and assist businesses in thinking strategically and connecting their plan to KPIs. This is where AP/AR automation is required.

Outsource your AP / AR Automation to IBN Technologies

IBN Technologies is an established provider of outsourced bookkeeping, finance and accounting services via a team of highly competent and devoted offshore bookkeepers. With an aim to help their clients increase their core business capacity, IBN Technologies acts as a third-party AP/AR automation specialist as well as offers significant cost reductions to US businesses on operational costs via its bookkeeping, accounts payable and accounts receivables, finance and accounting services. And all these adds to client benefits of not worrying about the talent crisis afflicting the accounting sector.

"Businesses today are aware that finance and accounting services require unique and specialized expertise. Not all businesses have the scope of having a proprietary software, an in-house bookkeeper or accountant / financial expert" says Ajay Mehta, CEO and Founder of IBN Technologies. "That's why business owners should look to outsource these key functions to a leading-edge firm that offers focused, accurate and value-added services that are forward looking for a business."

Automation helps save man-hours, accounting errors and improve efficiency of financial processes in a business. Additionally, businesses can easily and quickly track expenditures, have optimal management of expenses, have clear cash visibility and forecasting, streamline overall finance management, and have a timely month end closing, when they work with AP / AR automation service providers like IBN Technologies.

A benefit of good accounting procedures is that they maintain a business in legal compliance. It is easy for owners / founders to break a lot of rules, such as not paying the correct amount of taxes, without competent accounting. Poor AP / AR can also result in ignorance of several small aspects that together maintain a business on the straight and narrow, such as making required changes to meet cash flow requirements. Having bad financial records can also cause a lot of unneeded problems if a business is ever under legal investigation, which happens to many firms, eventually.

The team of IBN finance and accounting department come with numerous years of US bookkeeping experience, AP / AR processes, and a strong, certified competence. IBN offers expertise in multiple accounting software via our offshore bookkeeping team that works across industries and segments.
