influencers who best match with their content. This program also has the potential to drive up earnings for influencers and associates struggling to capitalize on standard commissions, without having to deal with direct negotiation on a brand by brand basis. One user case study shows a clear examples on just how much extra income an influencer can earn and compares default earnings with the bonus earnings from Logie.

In Logie, there is a new reporting feature that lets influencers customize and sort the columns of product sales, and with this feature users can sort by Logie earnings (commissions) vs Amazon Earning alone. When doing comparisons to show how much value Logie is providing, in the first example below, Plugable which is a current brand onboarded to Logie and at times has a whopping 50% commission payout under certain scenario's. Evidence screenshot shows that Amazon sales alone made $113.19 and $56.22 respectively for 2 Plugable brand products. But with the Logie commissions, DragonBlogger was paid an additional $3900+ for the first Plugable product and $2000+ for the 2nd Plugable product.

This means on these 2 products alone, without the Logie brand partnerships and only relying on Amazon commissions from sales, earnings were a meager $169.41 but Logie AI alone on these 2 products brought in an additional revenue of $5940. This increase in revenue was almost a 3500% increase and this was based on a sampling of just 2 products**.
