Home theater and smart home solutions now include solar power installation

POTOMAC, MD, UNITED STATES, May 31, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- All About Sound & Video (AASV) is very proud to announce the expansion of their home theater and smart home capabilities with the ability to now install solar panels to efficiently and sustainably power the home. Switch2Solar is a new company that has been formed by AASV.

Since launching in 2000, Potomac, Maryland-based AASV has become the trusted leader for installing and integrating audio, video, security, lighting and temperature control into one cohesive system for residential and commercial customers.

Eric Klun

“With AASV being an established smart home provider, we are always looking for the newest products and services to improve our customers' lives”, says Eric Klun, Owner and Founder of AASV, “over the years we have installed and integrated Uninterruptable Power System (UPS) units and have been seeing the evolution of solar energy systems mature to the point of being viable.”

By applying 23 years of experience, Switch2Solar will quickly become the trusted choice for making the installation of a solar energy system install a pleasant and painless experience. Eric Klun also says “our existing customers are excited about the prospect of adding a solar system and we want to offer a cost effective and reliable solar energy system install for new customers as well.”

Switch2Solar is a fully integrated solar energy and smart home company.

About All About Sound & Video (AASV) and Switch2Solar

In late 1999, after working with local cable and satellite companies installing TV service and setting up TVs, Eric Klun created AASV to fill a need in the home theater market for high-quality products and, more importantly, customer service. Soon after, AASV began filling another need for the emerging smart home market. Learn more about AASV by visiting the website at www.aasv.tv and connecting on Facebook at @AASVINC.
