Kerry W. Kirby, American entrepreneur, technology innovator, and philanthropist.

Artificial Intelligence: The Myths, Magic, and Mayhem Taking The World by Storm delivers a comprehensive overview of the emergence of artificial intelligence. The podcast delves into the origin of this technology and how businesses are leveraging the power of machine learning, natural language processing, and computer vision to impact their operations. The segment also explores how the multifamily housing industry can optimize their lead to lease spend through automated tools.

"In order to succeed in the current marketplace, businesses of all types need to implement an automated service approach to strengthen the capabilities of their workforce," Kirby explained. "Change has never moved faster, but along with that change comes the need to revise our strategies and transform outdated processes to ensure continuity of services."

Joining Kirby is property management expert, Ernest F. Oriente of PowerHour, an industry professional, and the author of SmartMatch Alliances. Oriente and Kirby have presented over 160 podcasts together, reaching over one-million listeners from around the world, and broadcasting across an array of podcast channels, such as Spotify, iHeart Radio, and Apple Podcast. Oriente responded, "Kerry has his finger on the pulse of the latest technology innovations trending across the globe, and I am excited to join him in this discussion on the latest technology trends entering the market that will help our industry transform its operations. As with all the material we produce, we strive to deliver relevant, straightforward information to our audience, so they can better prepare for the next wave of developments taking place."

"The world has changed dramatically, and its effects are felt across every business and industry imaginable," Kirby concluded. "Onsite teams are spread thin, and finding qualified staff is even more of a challenge in today's market. Given the immense size of the modern-day rental market, it is crucial that multifamily housing operators leverage next generation technologies to not only better serve their renters, but also supplement their workforce."
