"We have been actively searching for a scientifically validated soft-skills assessment solution that aligns with our hard-skills-based testing program."

Mike Callen, VP of Products for TestGenius

The Logi-Serve suite offers a range of assessments tailored to predict and develop skills in customer service, sales, and functional leadership roles. By leveraging Logi-Serve's validated science and technology, businesses can accurately predict and develop employee job fit, improve performance, reduce costs, and drive measurable improvements. The integration of Logi-Serve's competency-based assessments with Test Genius's comprehensive skills assessment creates an unrivaled offering that is currently unavailable in the market.

"We have been actively searching for a scientifically validated soft-skills assessment solution that aligns with our hard-skills-based testing program. By adding soft skills testing to our library, our clients are able to measure more aspects of job performance, and be even more successful in selecting the best candidates," says Mike Callen, VP of Products for TestGenius

With this integration, Logi-Serve and Test Genius aim to provide businesses with an easy-to-use, engaging, and cost-effective employee assessment system. By maximizing test accuracy and defensibility, minimizing legal exposure, and enhancing job fit, organizations can reduce costs and improve employee performance.

"By introducing our on-demand assessments within the secure Test Genius platform, we are offering end-users an accessible, turnkey, and affordable employee assessment solution that efficiently manages the entire employee lifecycle," says Eric Krohner, Logi-Serve CEO. "This integration empowers businesses to quickly and effectively solve their talent acquisition and talent management needs under a single, global contract."

The Logi-Serve and Test Genius integration program enables customers to access a range of high-quality talent acquisition and talent management tools tailored to their specific business needs. Through a unified framework, businesses gain access to all relevant Test Genius and partner technologies.
