Mobetize, a B2B Fintech that delivers a frictionless white label banking marketplace solution to financial institutions, have announced a new integration partnership aimed at streamlining financial transactions for credit union members. With this partnership, credit unions that have implemented the Mobetize banking marketplace platform now allow their members to use NotaryPro Technologies' online platform to digitally notarize documents quickly and easily from the comfort of their own homes.

"We are beyond excited to partner with Mobetize to enhance their banking marketplace platform and work towards fundamentally changing how people interact with their financial institutions," said NotaryPro's CEO, Robert

Onley. "By integrating directly with their existing banking marketplace platform, sensitive documents can now move seamlessly between platforms ensuring greater security and ease of use so clients can complete important financial transactions fully digitally."

With 4 in 5 financial documents eligible for online notary services, the integration between NotaryPro and Mobetize is game changing. At a time when people are overwhelmed with paperwork, this partnership will save credit unions and their clients time and money by eliminating the need to visit a physical notary, while also ensuring that their important financial documents are properly notarized and legally binding. In the era of emerging AI tools, the need for human validation as part of an increasingly digital process is becoming essential. This collaboration is the beginning of human-powered legal services integrated into digital processes to ensure validity and compliance.

"We are very passionate about solutions that are customer-centric and provide personalized experiences within a banking marketplace helping consumers manage their financial health and lifestyle needs," said Ajay Hans, CEO of Mobetize. "We are thrilled to launch our exclusive relationship with NotaryPro in our banking marketplace platform for our credit union clients. This innovation furthers our goal of digital transformation that enhances a credit union's operational efficiency, compliance, revenues, and member experience. We welcome all our credit union partners to offer online notary services through the banking marketplace as a value added service for their members."

"As both an investor and user of the banking marketplace solution with Mobetize, we're excited to see the addition of online notary services," stated Nelson Sandhu, Chief Experience and Innovation Officer at Gulf & Fraser. "This added benefit brings us closer to our goal of providing members with personalized services that are easy to use, convenient, frictionless, and cost efficient. The online notarization service will simplify any transaction that requires extra compliance without our member having to leave their home to complete their transaction online in real-time. We look forward to adding this service to the Gulf & Fraser marketplace in the near future."
