"Yellow Bird" introduces us to a delightful ensemble of characters. Angus Benfield (known for his roles in NCIS LA, Inventing Anna, Heaven) shines as Jake Rush, a once-successful PR agent seeking the person he can't live without. Alongside him, the Ena O'Rourke (Hashtag Blessed: The Movie) brings her comedic timing to the role of Ellie Rush, Jake's vivacious wife.

Family Affair's Kathy Garver (Spider-Man and His Amazing Friends) portrays Rachel, Jake's feisty widowed mother, who adds a delightful charm to the story with her portrayal of a woman in the early stages of Alzheimer's, holding onto memories from decades ago while aspiring to fulfill her dream of becoming a movie star; transgender actress Plastic Martyr (Little Women: LA, Botched) as Krystal, Jake's best friend in his AA group and Brian Doyle-Murray (Caddyshack, JFK, Wayne's World, Groundhog Day) delivers a witty, layered vocal performance as Jake's conscience in the guise of a garden gnome!

Under Angus Benfield's exceptional direction, "Yellow Bird" takes flight as a delightful comedy that combines laughter, heart, and a journey of self-discovery. The film's success is a testament to the collective efforts of a talented team, including Tony Jerris (Writer), Cliff Goldsmith (Cinematographer), Christopher Hawthorn (Composer), Ruth Benfield (Production Designer), and an incredible ensemble of actors who bring the story to life with their exceptional performances.
