Miss Claus and Her Bunnies

Up at the North Pole, all hands are on board to make Christmas magical! With the help of elves and bunnies, Santa prepares for his trip around the world to deliver gifts to kids who've made it to his "nice" list. With the millions of children, there are, a million gifts also need to be prepared.

Elizabeth, Santa Claus' youngest daughter, also known as Miss Claus, is responsible for managing the bunnies. Promoting diversity and inclusivity, Dr. ten Brink introduces the bunnies by assigning each specific kind to a line of work that perfectly suits them. For example, Angora bunnies are fluffy in nature so they are tasked to test out the plush toys at the stuffed toy department. Through every page's flip, get ready to be fascinated by all the hard work that these bunnies do all year to keep the Christmas spirit alive!
