Some Key Highlights From the Report

The wireless segment accounted for largest revenue share in 2021. Growing need for high-speed internet connectivity and increasing usage of smart gadgets, such as smart TVs, and smartphones with wireless connectivity, are driving demand for wireless routers with strong connections. Also, increased demand for internet-connected devices and cloud networking is driving revenue growth of this segment.

The virtual segment accounted for a moderate revenue share in 2021. A virtual router is a software-based routing architecture that enables hosting system to perform like a typical hardware router across a local area network. A virtual router can provide a computer or server capabilities of a full-fledged router by using software to execute router's network and packet routing functions.

On September 21, 2021, Nokia released fifth-generation routing silicon and raises the bar for IP network security and energy efficiency. While delivering new features for shielding network traffic from security threats, Nokia FP5 network processing hardware makes a generational leap in IP network capacity and power efficiency.
