Artworks by Keith Edwards are the result between realism and the digital world. In his art, Keith Edwards deals with history, architecture, everyday life and surrealistic visions.

Artworks by Janusz Tworek are emotional, expressive and surrealistic. The authentic implementation of the works is important to the artist.

In her latest works, Julia McClurg engages questions of identity as they relate to art history as well as our everyday interactions with mainstream culture and social media. Greatly inspired by modernist masters as well as pop-artists, McClurg mixes fragments of different iconic images in vivid and colorful compositions.

Alessandra Haldi Piano combines elements from nature in her artworks. She combines sand and shells with art materials and brings the feeling of the place like the sea and the beach to the viewer. Water worlds, natural beauty and images of people characterize the artistic work of Katharina Rochat. It is important to her to place the viewer in a room with harmony and a joyful atmosphere.

Landscapes, portraits, still lifes, but also themes from modern society can be seen in the works of art by MANO. MANO has had solo and group exhibitions in Hungary, Sweden, Israel, Austria, Belgium, Romania, USA, Canada and Italy.

Irit Rotrubin is a photographer and specializing in artistic photography. In her works, the artist deals with the connection between the camera and the colors in the artist's work. She often works with techniques of light and shadow.
