

Feminized and Autoflowering Cannabis Seeds Surge in Popularity, Making Home Growing More Accessible Than Ever

The leader in cannabis seed production and distribution, Seeds Here Now, experiences a spike in demand for feminized and autoflower cannabis seeds.

TULSA, OKLAHOMA, UNITED STATES, June 20, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Seeds Here Now, a top-tier cannabis seed vendor, is witnessing a significant increase in demand for feminized and autoflowering cannabis seeds. As the cannabis industry expands, new and experienced growers seek high-quality, easy-to-grow seeds to produce the best possible crops. The company, known for its exceptional seed offerings, is prepared to meet this rising demand.

Feminized and auto-flowering cannabis seeds, also known as ruderalis, have gained popularity due to their ease of growth, making them a perfect choice for beginners and those with limited time and resources. Autoflowering plants, unlike their photoperiod counterparts, do not require specific light cycles to flower, resulting in faster growth and harvest times.

Seeds Here Now is proud to offer a wide range of feminized and autoflowering cannabis seeds to cater to the diverse needs of their customers. The company partners with top breeders from around the country to provide a selection of seeds that are tested for quality, consistency, and ease of growth.

"Autoflowering and feminized cannabis seeds have become game-changers in the industry. We are thrilled to help our customers produce high-quality crops with minimal effort by offering these revolutionary seeds," said James Bean the CEO of Seeds Here Now.

He continued, "Our commitment to providing the best seeds in the market has led us to work closely with renowned breeders to ensure our seeds meet the highest quality standards. This dedication to excellence means our customers can trust us to deliver the best products for their growing needs."

Seeds Here Now is committed to addressing the upsurge in demand for feminized and autoflowering cannabis seeds. The company is increasing the ontake of new breeders to ensure growers have access to the seeds needed to produce the highest quality crops with ease.
