

Google Analytics 4 Migration Deadline Approaching - One Week Remaining Before Universal Analytics Is Discontinued

Macclesfield-based agency, Gumpo has announced a quick and cost-effective GA4 migration service.

MACCLESFIELD, CHESHIRE, UK, June 26, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Website owners in the UK are urged to take immediate action as the Google Analytics 4 migration deadline approaches. To continue measuring website traffic effectively, the migration to the latest version, Google Analytics 4, is mandatory. Failure to act will result in the automatic creation of a new GA4 property and the transfer of Universal Analytics configurations to the new property. It is essential for website owners to proactively initiate the migration process to ensure a seamless transition that correctly configures the data they need insight into.

Most professionals may already know that automatic transfers or migrations can often do more harm than good. A bigger concern when businesses rely on Google Analytics to help analyse their SEO, PPC and digital marketing strategies. Migration to Google Analytics 4 can be tricky, Gumpo have even outlined their top 10 pitfalls to avoid during the migration process, but incorrectly set up can cause untold reporting issues that will come back to bite you in the long run. Fortunately, Gumpo's experts offer a migration service for local businesses.
