Voicereels.com, a leading provider of bespoke demo production services for the voice acting industry, is thrilled to announce the addition of Klarna, a leading global retail bank, payments, and shopping service, to their platform.

The integration of Klarna's flexible payment options aims to make purchasing voice reel packages more affordable and accessible for actors and performers worldwide. This exciting development opens up new opportunities enabling actors to gain credibility with casting directors in animation, video games or advertising.

Al Black, Director of Voicereels.com, said, "We understand that investing in a custom voice reel is crucial for anyone aspiring to land the best voice-over roles. By introducing Klarna, we're making reels very affordable, meaning performers can spread their payments over time whilst getting an immediate headstart. Our packages are already competitively priced.
