

Pacific Coast University School of Law Transitions to 100% Online Learning, Providing More Accessibility & Flexibility.

Pacific Coast University School of Law embraces the future by transitioning to 100% online learning, empowering students with more accessibility & flexibility.

LONG BEACH, CA, UNITED STATES, July 10, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Pacific Coast University School of Law, a leading institution dedicated to providing affordable legal education to working individuals, is thrilled to announce its transition to a fully online law school. This significant step allows aspiring legal professionals to pursue their dreams of earning a law degree while benefiting from the flexibility and accessibility offered by online education.

With the world rapidly evolving and the demand for remote learning rising, Pacific Coast University School of Law recognizes the need to adapt to the changing landscape of legal education. By embracing online learning technologies and methodologies, the university is committed to empowering individuals who would otherwise be unable to attend law school due to various constraints.

Pacific Coast University School of Law's transition to a 100% online law school opens doors to individuals who seek a quality legal education while juggling professional and personal responsibilities. Through this innovative approach, students can now access comprehensive legal programs and coursework from the comfort and convenience of their own homes, eliminating geographical barriers and allowing them to tailor their studies to an evening schedule.

"We are excited to embark on this new chapter in legal education," said Toni O'Neal, Admissions
