ABOUT TRUE Whole Human

We blend holistic health coaching, the science of behavioral change, and the power of transformative human psychology. We break down the essential components of healthy living into bite-size steps to help you achieve an outstanding level of vitality without crashing your schedule, draining your willpower (or bank account!), or sacrificing your social life.

Your current health wasn't created in a vacuum. Your strategy to change your health shouldn't be either. To create a plan that works it has to be designed within the larger context of your life, and account for your situation and life ambitions. Otherwise, you'll only revisit familiar plateaus and never change your body, health, wellness, or fitness for good.

My wife and business partner Nina bring a combined 30 years of elite experience helping people get lasting results, reclaim personal power, and gain the confidence to get their mojo back. We bring this lasting impact to clients virtually through small group and 1-1 coaching.

Christian Elliot joins other leading CEO's, founders, and thought leaders that have participated in this informative and popular interview show.
