

LiveHire and Career Money Life Launch Innovative Candidate Experience Solution

This new offering from two industry leaders will deliver a new standard in candidate care.

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA, June 25, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- LiveHire and Career Money Life, two industry leaders in talent acquisition and workforce management solutions, have joined forces to rethink the traditional approach to the candidate experience. Their CandidateCare solution will enable employers to offer a best practice candidate experience via LiveHire's recruitment platform, combined with Career Money Life's CareerHub where candidates can access expert career advice, job search tools and support for every stage of their candidate journey.

Despite ongoing concerns about an economic slowdown, about three quarters of CEOs in Australia say that issues related to workforce management and skills are the biggest challenges facing their business in 2023. Progressive organisations are leveraging their employer brands to attract and engage candidates, developing talent pipelines that will enable them to outpace their competitors. Providing an outstanding candidate experience is a critical part of any talent attraction strategy and can also impact how customers perceive your brand in the market.

Candidates who report having had a negative experience will take their alliances, product purchases and business relationships elsewhere. A poor candidate experience means a potential loss of revenue for consumer-based businesses while hurting referral networks for all companies and impacting which high-quality candidates will be open to future roles.

"This new solution with Career Money Life represents another step forward in our ability to deliver award-winning candidate experiences," said Christy Forest, CEO of LiveHire. "Our mission is to empower the flow of the world's talent, so we consider candidate experience our superpower and know that it leads to unmatched outcomes in speed and diversity of hire."

"Career Money Life is excited to partner with LiveHire to bring our CandidateCare solution to their clients and the wider job seeker community. We understand that finding a new job can be a stressful and complicated process for many. We are thrilled to provide a simple solution that candidates can access to make it easier for them and to support the brands of LiveHire's clients and help them attract and retain the best talent." Sandy Hutchison, Founder & CEO

This partnership is just the beginning of a long-term relationship between LiveHire and Career

Money Life. Both companies are committed to working together to provide customers with the best possible solutions and service.
